Foreign Trade (IIFT), Research and Information System (RIS), National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER) and Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations (ICRIER) etc. The studies are based on economic modeling as well as the consultations held with/feedbacks received from the domestic stakeholders.

The FTAs also provide for maintaining sensitive/negative lists of items on which limited , or no tariff concessions are granted under the Agreement. Most of the agriculture items are kept in India's Sensitive List/Negative List on the basis of recommendations made by the administrative department/Ministry. If items on which tariff concessions are offered are imported in such quantities so as to cause injury to the domestic industry, a preferential safeguard mechanism is allowed to be taken to protect the domestic industry. In addition, in case of a surge in imports, India, can also adopt WTO measures such as anti-dumping and safeguards.
